FRANK'S SENTENCE IS COMMUTED

Convicted Man Will Not Die For Murder of Mary Phagan

WINS IN FINAL FIGHT

Prisoner Whisked in Auto From Rear Door of Atlanta Jail and Hurried to Millidgeville.

Atlanta, June 21.—Leo M. Frank will not die on the gallows tomorrow for the murder of Mary Phagan.

Governor Slaton at midnight commuted his sentence from death to life imprisonment.

A few minutes later the prisoner was spirited from the jail, through the rear door, and under a heavy guard started for the State prison farm at Millidgeville.

Sheriff Mangum was notified of the executive clemency only a few minutes before the train left and rushed the prisoner to the station in an automobile.

Announcement of the governor's action was held up because it was feared that on account of the intense feeling here an attempt would be be made to lynch Frank.

Governor Slaton refuses to discuss the case further than to say he is preparing a long statement to be given out later in the day.

"All I ask is that the people of Georgia read my statement and consider calmly the reasons that I have given for commuting this man's sentence to life imprisonment. I am absolutely satisfied that I did right," said Governor Slaton in advance of his formal statement.

Frank was accompanied to the prison farm by Sheriff Mangum and a strong posse of deputies. His departure from the jail was so secret that even his own friends did not know of it until some time afterwards.

Though it was known Frank was no longer there, there was a crowd around the Atlanta jail early today.

The name of Mary Phagan, whom Frank was convicted of murdering, was frequently heard. Expressions of dissatisfaction with the commutation were common also, but there was nothing like the violence of tone which had been feared and expected.

The strain of the situation has been tremendous and the feeling of relief at the snapping of the tension probably had something to do with the almost apathetic reception of the outcome.

The suddenness of the authorities action also took the people by surprise and it was evident that they had hardly had time to adjust themselves to the latest development.

WARDEN'S WIFE ABLAZE

Husband Away—Negro Trusty Employed as Personal Servant Suspected of Murder

Joliet, Ill., June 21—Mrs. Edmund M. Allen, wife of the warden of the Illinois Penitentiary, was found dead in her blazing bed yesterday, and a committee is investigating to determine whether she accidentally set hedself on fire, or was slain and burned by George Campbell, a negro prisoner, used by the warden's family as a personal servant. Mr. Allen was absent on a trip to West Baden, Ind.

A jug partly filled with wood alcohol was found in the bedroom after the fire was extinguished, and members of the investigating committee said it was possible that some of this fluid had been used in an effort to cremate Mrs. Allen. Campbell is a trusty, serving an intermediate term for manslaughter, committed in Chicago.

Miss Margaret Freeman, of Goldsboro, N. C., is the guest of Miss Emma Topping, at her home innorth Pitt street.

HUNT CHILD SLAYER.

Cincinnati Police Combing City for the Murderer of Eleven-Year-Old Girl.

Cincinnati, June 20.—Never before in the history of this city has a search for a criminal been more thorough or with more notice to details than the one now being made by the police for the murder of little Elizabeth Nolte, the 11-year-old girl whose mutilated body was found in the rear of her home here Thursday morning.

A room to room search through a thickly settled tenement district is being made with the plan of locating the place where the murderer actually committed the crime.

In the meantime parents of the children residing in the neighborborhood of the Nolte home are keeping their little ones in doors, or when they journey out they are escorted by older persons, the fear being entertained that the perpetrator of the crime might find another victim.

Two suspects have been arrested, one negro and one white man, but both deny that they know anything concerning the case, other than that they know the girl by sight. No formal charge has been placed against them and the police have announced that unless more evidence is obtained they will be released shortly.

"THE GODDESS" HERE TONIGHT.

Beginning tonight at the Richmond Theatre will be shown the beautiful serial entitled "The Goddess," in which is featured the pretty and fascinating movie star, Miss Anita Stewart and the popular actor, Mr. Earle Williams. It has been said that no picture produced on the screen has created as much talk and favorable comment as has this attraction. It is impossible to give a synopsis in a limited space and the public is cordially invited to secure a program from one of the attendants at the Richmond in which a complete synopsis appears. Do not miss the first performance tonight as you will undoubtedly be fascinated during the coming weeks. As a special attraction Charlie Chaplin in "The Tramp" is also offered. See Gazette program for the balance of this week's special productions.

COL. DEMPSEY RETURNS

Attends Reunion of His Class at West Point Military Academy

Colonel C. A. Dempsey, United States Army, detailed with the Virginia Volunteers as inspector of small arms practice, was at his desk in the Adjutant-General's office in Richmond yesterday after an absence of ten days. Colonel Dempsey attended the finals at the United States Military Academy, West Point, at which a reunion of his class was held. He also spent several days with friends in New York.

Capt. A. M. Shipp, United States Army, detailed as instructor of Virginia Volunteers, is at Seagirt, N. Jr., on duty as instructor during the encampment of the New Jersey National Guard.

Fell From Roof.

Philadelphia, June 21.—Held by his brother, who had grabbed him as he toppled off a roof in the rear of No. 626 South Fourth street yesterday, David Kevles, eight years old, of No. 1628 South Ninth street, dangled for a few moments by his shirt, three stories up in mid-air, until the fabric ripped and the boy dropped to the pavement. He is in Mt. Siani Hospital, suffering from several compound fractures, and is not expected to live.

DISSENSION IN SUFFRAGE RANKS

Richmond League Disclaims Responsibility For Work of Union

ARE RIVAL FACTIONS

One Fighting for Suffrage by Amendment to Constitution and Other by State Enactment.

Richmond, June 21—The recently organized Congressional Union of Virginia—an organization formed for the purpose of pushing the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the Constitution granting sufferage to women—has brought down from Washington a professional organizer, Miss Emily K. Perry, to stir up interest in the work. Miss Perry is a Virginian She held an open air meeting Saturday night.

Miss Perry explains the reason for her coming to Virginia as follows:

"I feel that in coming here to Virginia and talking about an amendment to the United States Consitution I am far from infringing on any right of the State; rather, I am calling to the attention of Virginia, one of the oldest and most important States in the Union, to her inalienable right and privilege of changing the Constitution in the framing of which she had so large a part, at any time she so desires. I have come to Richmond to try to help the splendid Virginia women among you make you want an amendment to the Constitution as quickly as possible."

Miss Perry is the guest in Richmond of Mrs. Charles V. Meredith and will accompany her in the deputation to call on Congressman A. J. Montague at an early date. She will also assist at the open air meeting to be held in Richmond, and will help organize the Virginia branch of the Congressional Union.

Miss Perry states that she is not here to in any way interfer with or handicap the State work. On the other hand, she says: "I feel so very strongly the great benefit this campaign for Federal work is bound to be to the Virginia woman suffrage compaign. Every bit of suffrage publicity and activity helps rather than hinders, and the wonderful enthusiasm that Federal work has met with at every public meeting held throughout the State is propaganda in itself."

On the other hand, the Equal Suffrage League of Virginia has disclaimed all responsibility for the Congressional Union. In literature sent out by the local league it is stated that "this organization (the Congressional Union) is in no way connected with the great body of suffragists, but is a new organization with methods and policies diametrically opposite to those of the national association." The action of the Congressional Union is deprecated and the league "disclaims any responsibility for or sympathy with the same."

The Equal Suffrage League of Virginia is bending every effort at this time t osecuring signatures on a petion to the State Legislature requesting that body to submit to the qualified voters for ratification an amendment to the Constitution of Virginia giving suffrage to women.

Slain by His Wife.

Chester, Pa., June 21.—John F. Burk, 40 years old, a track foreman for the Pennsylvania Railroad, was shot through the jugular vein and instantly killed by his wife, Elizabeth, a frail little woman, weighing less than 100 pounds, in the presence of their five little children last night in the dining room of the couple's home at Ninth and Flower streets.

The shooting was the culmination of many abuses to which the woman has been subjected for a long time, the police say, and they are inclined to believe the statement of Mrs. Burk that she acted in self-defense. Mrs. Burk was arrested.

SERVICE AT POHICK CHURCH.

Anniversary of First Celebration of Communion Commemorated Yesterday.

The 308th anniversary of the first celebration of the Holy Communion held after the landing of English colonists on Jamestown Island by their chaplain, the Rev. Robert Hunt, was commemorated at Old Pohick Church yesterday morning. The Holy Communion was administered by the Rev. S. A. Wallis, D. D., of the Theological Seminary, near this city, who also preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion. There was a large congregation present, among the number being Acting Secretary of State Lansing, and Mrs. Lansing and Dr. Richardson, the celebrated specialist, among the physicians of Washington, and Mrs. Richardson, who brought the Acting Secretary of State and Mrs. Lansing in their car from Washington. After service their party went to Gunston Hall, where they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Hertle at dinner. In the evening they went to Woodlawn Mansion, the residence of Mrs Sharpe, where they made a short visit and then returned to Washington. They had expeeted to take tea at Woodlawn, but Mr. Lansing felt that he must return as soon as possible to the capital. Dr. and Mrs. Wallis were guests both at the rectory and at 'Woodlawn,' and returned to the Seminary that night.

BROOKS BROUGHT HERE.

Negro Who Attempted to Shoot Policeman Reed Held for Grand Jury.

In Police Court this morning Joseph Brooks, a negro, with a long police record, was held for the action of the grand jury on the charge of attempting to shoot Policeman Samuel Reed. The attempted crime took place in the northeastern portion of the city on February 19th last. Policeman Reed had placed Brooks under arrest as being one of the negroes who had snatched pocket books from ladies. He put the nippers on the man's left wrist when he pulled a gun from his pocket and shot at the officer. Reed dodged and the bullet narrowly missed his head. Brooks was joined by another negro and the two dragged the officer to a rock pile where they beat him up and left him.

Brooks was arrested in Baltimore last Friday. Officer Reed went to the Monumental City on Saturday and identified the negro as the man who had shot at him. Brooks agreed to return to Alexandria without requisition papers.

He acknowledged to Justice Caton that he was the man who was wanted but denied that he had shot at the policeman. He said that he had a gun at the time he was placed under arrest.

THE LATE J. H. KUEHLING.

Funeral of Former Resident of Pohick Neighborhood Took Place Yesterday.

The funeral of the late J. Henry Kuehling, who resided near Mount Vernon for many years, took place yesterday afternoon at one o'clock at old Pohick Church, the Rev. Dr. Wallis, officiating. The deceased had carried on business in Washington where he lived for some time and where he died last Friday. A service was held in the morning at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in that city, but as the interment was in the family lot at Pohick Church the family desired a funeral service to be held there, as he was well known in that community, Mr. Kuehling, who was in his 74 th year, leaves a widow, and a brother and sister, Mr. Seth nad Miss Elizabeth Kuehling, who resides near Lorton Station, Fairfax County.

Joseph Smith, 58, was wounded fatally and Mrs. Smith, 18, was beaten severely by a negro burglar, who attacked them in their home at Monessen, Pa., yesterday when Smith refused to give up some money he was supposed to have in the house. The negro shot Smith through the neck when the latter attempted to defend himself. Mrs. Smith's cries summoned help and the negro fled. Smith died in a hospital later. Smith, a miner, sold some property recently and had told friends he had the money in his home.

BANKERS ENDORSE THE PRESIDENT

Commend Zeal and Good Faith of John Skelton Williams

WILL OMIT LIQUORS

Participate in Grand Banquet at Chamberlain's Hotel, Old Point, at The Close of Session.

Newport News, Va., June 21—The Virginia Bankers Association at Old Point Saturday placed the association on record as being opposed to the use of intoxicating drinks at the annual banquets and when the body assembles around the festal board next year the members will have to enjoy the meals without liquors.

The resolution to do away with liquors at the banquets was offered just a few moments before the association finished its sessions by S. J. Barrow, of Blackstone, and was passed by a vote of twenty- three to fourteen.

The final session proved the most spirited and interesting of the entire meeting.

The association unanimously adopted resolutions commending the administration of President Woodrow Wilson and placing the body on record as favoring the foreign policy of Mr. Wilson.

In its original form, the preamble of the resolution contained references to the resignation of the Secretary of State which, while they preserved the general import of the paper that was adopted, were stricken out by the convention as a concession to strictly good taste.

The debate on the various suggested amendments, a times spirited to a degree, developed the genera. feeling of the members that public opinion in Virginia, particularly among bankers, supports the administration's foreign policies, and that this allegiance to the President's program has not been abated by the division in the Cabinet.

In its first draft the resolution also assured the President that the resignation of Secretary Bryan has in no way impaired the confidence of the Virginia bankers in the wisdom of his procedure in dealing with the complications arising from the loss of American life through the sinking of passenger-carrying vessels by the belligerents.

Another resolution directed the secretary to send a letter to Hon John Skelton Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, expressing the "confidence of the Virginia Bankers' Association in the fidelity, intelligence and good faith of the comptroller in his desires to carry out the laws governing his department."

The letter declared that the "association would feel that it had been amiss in its duty had it not placed this testimony on record."

The officers nominated on Friday were unanimously elected and President C. E. Tiffany, of Warrenton took the gavel during the closing hours of the convention. Mr. Taffany heartily thanked the association for the honor conferred upon him.

Carroll Pierce, of Alexandria, presented a handsome loving cup to the retiring president, W. B. Vest on behalf of the association. Mr. Pierce was especially laudatory of the splendid work done for the association by Mr. Vest declaring that the past year had been the most successful in the history of the organization.

LOCAL BREVITIES

The Willard W. C. T. U. will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the lecture room of the Trinity M. E. Church South.

An ice cream festival will be given Thursday, the 24th, from 7 to 10 p. m., in the Young People's Building, for the benefit of the Children's Home.

There will be a called meeting tonight of the Police Commissioners for the purpose of electing an officer to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the late William A. Ferguson.

The twelve days' clean-up campaign inaugurated by the Civic Improvement League will end Wednesday. Work will be done today, Tuesday and Wednesday in the Third ward.

The body of C. O. C. Brown, of Del Ray, who died at the Alexandria Hospital Saturday of burns received while soldering a gasoline tank, were forwarded to the home of his mother in Washington, from which place his funeral will take place.

The meeting of the finance committee of the City Council, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, at which time it was expected that a report would be made by Attorney John M. Johnson as to the right of the city to receive taxes from the territory recently annexed to Alexandria, was postponed until Tuesday night.

Today is the longest day of the year. The sun rose at 4:43 and will set a few seconds after 7:37. The extra seconds compose the additional day time alloted to June 21. Today the sun reached its most northerly point, and later in the evening will start its descent to the equator, reaching the southern extremity September 21.

The Circuit Court for Alexandria County, Judge J. B. T. Thornton presiding, convened this morning. The case of Albert Harris, colored, charged with pocketboot snatching, is set for trial tomorrow. Harris was arrested by citizens of the county a few minutes after he is said to have snatched a pocketbook from a woman living in Del Ray.

T. P. A. DELEGATES BACK.

Julian Y. Williams and A. D. Brockett, two of the Alexandria representatives to the T. P. A. convention at Omaha, Neb., have returned home and report that they had a most delightful time entertaining and being entertained. The Virginia delegation made a splendid showing and it is stated that they were entitled to first prize in the parade but were barred by a technicality. The Omaha executive committee presented them with ahandsome basket of flowers and the judges accorded them honorable mention. In honor of their victory the Virginians gave a Smithfield ham dinner to 350 guests, at which Julian Y. Williams, of this city, was toastmaster.

J. William May, the third representative from Post F, is expected home tomorrow.

FLOODS IN THE WEST.

Kansas City, Mo., June 21.—Twenty-four hours of lowering clouds, but only negligible rain, in Eastern Kansas and Western Missouri, gave some relief last night from fears of large damage by waters of the Kansas and Missouri rivers, but the continued threatening weather left the situation menacing.

Both the Kansas and Missouri were rising very slowly here last night, with the Missouri just short of the predicted stage of 27 feet and Kansas three feet lower. This left a clear margin of about four feet below the tops of the city dikes.

LEMBERG IS ABOUT TO FALL

Russian Troops Said to be Preparing to Leave The City.

ATTACK LAST LINES.

Germans Within Eleven Miles of Place—Austrian Shells Reported to Be Falling in Cracow.

Berlin, June 21—Lemberg is about to fall before the eyes of the Kaiser. The Russians are preparing to evacuate the city. A dispatch from Przemsyl early today says Austrian regiments are storming the last line of Russian defenses on a ridge eleven miles from the city and that Austrian shells are falling in Cracow, the western suburb of the Galician capital.

Since early yesterday trainloads of Russian wounded have been hurrying out of Lemberg. They are moving northeast in the direction of Brody, five miles from the Russian frontier. Aviators have brought word that several trainloads of heavy guns are moving out of Lemberg.

Hotly pursued by the Austro-Germans, the Russians who were driven out of Grodek fell back toward Lemberg. Through the gap between lakes Drozdowiecki and Czerlanski, General Mackensen is rushing flying columns of cavalry and infantry. They drove enemy eastward so rapidly that the Slavs made only a feeble attempt at resistance at their first line of trenches, three miles east of the lakes.

The Russian center retreated so rapidly that the right flank had to give way and began falling back in confusion from the Wereszyca river north of Grodek at daybreak Sunday.

Throughout Saturday night and early Sunday, the Russians continued to give ground, abandoning one after another row of trenches on the hills east of Grodek. They are making their final stand on a four-mile ridge.

The battle for the ridge began yesterday morning, the Austrians making the first onslaught. The Russcions beat off the early attacks, fighting desperately. When the last dispatches were filed from the battle front General Mackesen was hurling one regiment after another into the attack.

Unofficial reports say that the Kaiser has moved forward close to the battlefront and plans to enter Lemberg with the Austro-Germans.

MAKES ITS TRIAL TRIP

Many Persons Attracted to River Front to See Hydro-Aeroplane Make Start.

Skipping over the surface of the Potomac but making no effort to actually fly, "Clare", A. S. Richardson's big hydro-aeroplane, was taken for its first trial trip today. Shortly after 11 o'clock it was towed from its berth in front of the old Pioneer Mills and to the center of the channel almost in front of the Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Co's wharf. Here the tow lines were dropped and after a short delay the boat was started under its own power. The rear engine was started first and the boat swept up the river in the direction of Washington at a speed estimated at 20 miles an hour. A few seconds later the front engine was hooked up and the sound of the two big six cylinder Emersons, whirling the propeller 900 revolutions per minute, was deafening. With both propellers going it was estimated that the boat was making a speed of 32 miles per hour.

After going for a mile and a half the engines were stopped and it was stated that some changes would be necessary before an actual attempt to fly would be made.

At this morning's experimental flight A. S. Richardson, the builder was in charge, with Dean R. Van Kirk, of Washington, as aviator. Mr Van Kirk, who secured his flying experience at College Park, is organizing an aeronautical reserve corps of the naval militia of the District of Columbia. Victor Emerson, Jr., was in charge of the engines, with Amos Entwistle, Wm. Moffitt and Walter Padgett as assistants, Among the interested spectators at today's trial was F. T. Richardson, the financial backer of the company which is to manufacture the planes, and his son, Harlow C. Richardson.

Tests will be continued every day until the machine is actually flown. If these tests are successful, as it seems they will be, a big stride will be made in aerial navigation.

Not only is the machine the largest of its kind ever constructed, exceeding in size and carrying power the giant Curtis machine built last summer for a trans-Atlantic voyage, but many novel features never before incorporated in a flying boat have been added.

The distinguishing feature of the Richardson invention is the arrangement of the planes. The accepted type of biplanes have two planes on each side, one above the other, but the Richardson machine has four planes on each side, two in front, and two arranged in tanden form. Between the two sets of planes is the platform upon which it is proposed to erect the cabin to house passengers.

According to the builder the doubling of the planes will not only give greater lifting power, but will give the machines unusual stability. It will be almost impossible to "rock the boat," and the pilot will not be bothered in his efforts to keep a level keel, which is one of the greatest sources of trouble in the accepted types of heavier- than-air machines.

The Richardson machine has been under construction for more than a year. Before the present plane was constructed elaborate tests were made with models, which it is said showed that the ideas of the inventor were on the right lines.

On Monday the big yellow, kite-looking affair was taken from its shed for the first time and gently slid into the Potomac, where it has since rested like a bird upon the surface. Since that time dozens of mechanics have been climbing in and out of its rigging, testing engines and propellers, tightening up stays and belts, and doing the innumerable little things that mean so much to the aviator before he launches himself into the skies.

Tests have been delayed from hour to hour from one cause or another and big crowds of Alexandrians who have swarmed the docks and river shore have gone away disappointed. Many were reminded of the hours of weary waiting they experienced years ago when, perched on the top of Shooter's hill, west of Alexandria, they wilted through hot afternoons to see Wright make his cross- country flight and were finally rewarded by seeing far above their heads the first successful aeroplane make a graceful circle over Alexandria and dash back to its resting place at Fort Myer.

Everything was ready for a preliminary spin over the water Saturday afternoon, but a southeasterly wind made those in charge fear that the machine would be driven upon the piles.

The Richardson machine, as it rests in the water, looks as if it was throughly capable of carrying out the promise of its inventor. It is a business looking affair without nay freak features which characterize many inventions that promise to revolutionize things.

Its wide spread of wings glisten in their waterproof covering, its deck of cedar is bright with fresh varnish and the aluminum base of its two powerful engines shine as if they were made of silver. It floats on two parallel pontoons, 28 feet long and 2 feet square. With its equipment the pontoons are submerged less than three inches in the water. Upon the pontoons rest the deck 22 feet long and 6 feet wide. Laterals of white cedar carry the super-structure, to which the planes are attached.

Four feet above the deck are the engine beds. The two engines are arranged in tandem form, the rear one being placed 15 feet behind the frotn one. The engines are Emersons manufactured in Alexandria by Victor Emerson. They are each six cylinder, and have an actual horse-power of sixty-eight although it is claimed that their rating is much higher. They are built of aluminum and crome steel and weigh 325 pounds each. The propellers are placed in front of the first engine and in the rear of the second.

The pilot's seat is directly underneath the front engine and there are located the levers and devices that control the ascending and decending planes as well as the steering gear. Behind the pilot's seat and between the two negines is a platform six ft. by ten feet, which is the space to be used in carrying passengers or cargo.

Twenty passengers beside the crew can be carried. The gasolene tanks four in number, are on each side of the engines. They have a capacity of fifty gallons. In the pontoons are gasolene tanks which have a capacity of five barrels. It is estimated that fifty gallons of gasolene will run the machine for three hours, which at its estimated speed of sixty miles an hour, would give it a radius of 180 miles without calling on the reserve gasolene in its tanks. The machine nad its contents weighs 2,300 pounds.

WOMAN ADRIFT IN BOAT.

Found by Young Men in an Unconscious Condition Last Night.

While several young men were fishing on the river front last night they noticed a sail boat drifting out of the wharf near the fertilizer company's pier. They made an investigation and found Mary Beard, a white woman lying in the bottom of the boat. She was in an unconscious condition and the boys notified the police station. Later the woman was brought to the station house by Special Officer Allen. She stated that she had been taken in the boat by an unknown man who had robbed her of $22 and had knocked her unconscious.

In Police Court this morning she did not repeat the story of last night and upon testimony of police officers that the woman had no occupation or fixed place of abode, Justice Caton sent her to the work house for 30 days.

Mrs. Milton O. Moor has been called to Washington by the death of her father, Mr. Charles Burke, which occurred at his residence, 2030 G St., N. W. today. Mr. Burke was 88 years of age, and was formerly of Loudoun County, Va.

Hundreds of invitations have been accepted for the dance to be given tomorrow night by a committee from Alexandria Lodge of Elks, headed by Mr. George H. Schwarzmann. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 o'clock, and a special train will leave Alexandria at 1:10 a. m. to convey the Washington guests to that city. The Marine Band will furnish the music.

Miss Constance Boush, Miss Collins McKay Jones, Miss Mary E. Carlin and Miss Nina Carlin Fulton will leave on June 26 for a trip through the West, with stops at all the principal cities and Yellowstone Park. They also will visit the Panama-Pacific and San Diego exposition and will return by way of Vancouver and the Canadian Rockies.

Announcements have been received in Alexandria of the marriage in Charleston, W. Va., Thursday of Miss Naomi Simmons, formerly superintendent of the Alexandria Hospital, and Dr. George T. Klipstein, of this city. After a wedding trip to California, Dr. and Mrs. Klipstein will make their home at 607 Prince street, this city.

Mr. Emmett Reid Dunn entertained at a most delightfully informal dance at his home in Duke street Saturday evening. Punch was served during the dancing and later on in the evening delicious refreshments. Mr Dunn's guests were Miss Katherine Waller, Miss Isobel Boswell, Miss Collins Jones, Misses Mary and Anne Cabell, of Norwood, Nelson County, Va., Miss Esther Brookes, Miss Rose MacDonald, Miss Phillippa Wattles, Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Wattles, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leadbeater, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Boothe, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett C. Dunn, Mr. John Leadbeater, Mr. Frank Johnston, Mr. Gardner Boothe, Mr. Ferguson Bryan, Mr. Phil Knox, Mr. Wallace Fawcett, and Mr. Tupper Barrett.

MINISTER KILLS PLANTER

Allegation That He Acted Under Unwritten Law Denied by His Daughter

Calhoun, Ga., June 21—Claiming that he was avenging his daughter, the Rev. W. W. Putnam, a leading Baptist minister of this section, shot and killed Homer Taylor, a wealthy young planter. Taylor, at the time of the killing, was driving with his cousin in a buggy, and, according to the cousin, Putnam approached from behind and bagan firing at Taylor with a pistol, shooting five times.

Linens--the Ever-Welcome Gift

What is there more welcome to the bride than a gift of Table Linens? Certainly they have enjoyed the greatest favor ever since custom decreed that the bestowal of gifts to the newly married was the proper way of showing affection and love for them and interest in their welfare.

This year Linens should be chosen for gifts more extensively than ever, because of the scarcity that is already making itself felt, and the constantly increasing prices. Our prices are no higher than formerly, however, owing to our excellent preparation.

Table Cloths	$2.50 to $50.00
Hemistitched Table Sets	$4.50 to $45.00

COMMERCIALIZED QUARREL.

"Et tu, Brute?" was uttered a long time ago by one who had reason to exclaim, "Deliver me from my friends!" During the past two weeks many pens have been set in motion by the action of William Jennings Bryan in abdicating his post as Secretary of the State at a time when members of the two great political parties of the country were vieing in upholding the hands of President Wilson at one of the most critical junctures in the history of our nation. Republican papers seem to be especially severe upon the former secretary, as they unhesitatingly aver that the Nebraskan is endeavoring to make political capital at the expense of the President who is so ably handling the most delicate matter that has come to the hand of any executive since the country left Brittania's apron strings.

The Baltimore American, a republican organ, under the heading "Commercialized Quarrel," says:

"William Jennings Bryan has commercialized almost everything in his political career and made great gain by using the materials collected through his varied experience without much regard for the proprieties or the taste of so doing. He adhered to the lecture platform when he accepted the post of Secretary of State and did not hesitate to hold to his dates when the public felt that his attention was critically important for matters pending in his office.

"A lecture lyceum manager says that the former secretary can net $137,000 upon the lecture platform where he will have ample opportunity to mold public opinion at the same time that he earns phenomenal revenues. So that the break of the secretary from his chief may mean the minting, of money from the commercialized quarrel and such other platform materials as he may care to give forth to his admiring chautauqua audiences.

"The commercial instinct is not dormant in Mr. Bryan and while no one doubts his benevolences, the American people have not taken kindly to his utilization of time that ought to have been officially employed, for the making of money, nor will it take kindly to his commercializing the differences that created the division between himself and the President."

USE FOR THE BIG STICK.

It is generally agreed that all attempts on the part of the United States to bring order out of the chaotic conditions in Mexico by moral suasion are doomed to failure. The warring factions have treated every peaceful suggestion upon the part of this country with contempt, and the only way to bring about changed conditions is to enforce upon the belligerents respect for law and order. President Wilson, through the best motives, has labored long to avoid drastic measures, but the time seems to have come when parleying with bandits and other outlaws has passed, and that the strong arm of the mother republic must eventually be exercised to tear apart the belligerents and bring about a government in the land of the Montezumas under which quiet people can live, move and have their being.

Naturally the great mass of the people of the United States would prefer a peaceable solution of Mexican internal troubles. This, however, seems impossible so long as the number of pretenders to the presidential chair are multiplying and when Americans are being killed and robbed.

Former President Taft has suggested that an international organization should be formed for the purpose of using force in keeping rival countries from resprting to arms in order to settle their differences. The same principle might be adopted on the western heimsphere where a pugnacious country is never at peace. Mexico, one of the richest in natural resources, is virtually growing up in weeds by reason of chronic internal variances. The plan to allow the people to fight it out among themselves has proven a failure. Should such conditions be allowed to continue?

DIAPHANOUS HABILIMENTS.

Monsignor Gavotti, archbishop of Genoa, has issued a pastoral letter to the clergy and laity of his diocese deploring the indecency of the garments worn by both ladies and working women which, he says, constitute the gravest offense against chastity.

"What is worse," he writes, "is that these costumes are worn even at Communion. I deem it a positive duty of the bishops and priests to act strongly against these modern summer fashions. Personally, I have already publicly rebuked some of these women and will continue to do so even more severely. In the future also, I will refuse to administer Communion and will not allow to act as godmothers women scandalously dressed."

The letter concludes by inviting the mothers and confessors to discourage the use of transparent garments.

Solomon tells us there is nothing new under the sun, and the attirement of women of today is but a renaissance of fashion fads antedating the day of Homer. Transparent clothing was worn by women in Egypt before the days of Moses, according to Gunningham Geike in one of his books on the Bible. His comment on the action of Zuleika, wife of Potiphar, towards Joseph the young Hebrew, calls attention to a custom prevailing at that time in the land of the Pharaohs, which may have been started in antediluvian days.

The observations made by Herodotus stand next to the Bible in point of antiquity. He also tells of the diaphanous fashions he witnessed in his travels.

While this ancient author tells many probable stories, there is reason to believe he did not exaggerate in this particular, as he traveled in Egypt and other countries and doubtless tells what he saw. His repetitions of what others told him, however, may be taken with due allowance.

DANGER OF EXPLOSIVES.

The Gazette has for years endeavored to bring about a new departure in the celebration of the Fourth of July by showing the many dangers to old and young alike in the use of explosives on this national holiday Mayors of the city, acting in the interest of public safety, have done their part in ordering the police to enforce the laws against the sale and use of such dangerous devices, and while a few defiant persons still persist in thep ractice, the use of explosives on the Independence Day has been minimized to a great extent.

Mayor Fisher is determined to use every effort to eliminate the explosive feature from the celebration of the Fourth of July, and those who sell or use such contrivances will ru the risk of paying the penalty.

The premature celebration of the Fourth by a Maryland youngster may cost him his life.

John Paul Buckheit, 9 years old, of North Branch, Baltimore County, was taken to a hospital late yesterday afternoon with one hand nearly blown off by a small torpedo with which he was playing when it exploded. Physicians fear that they will have to amputate the hand. The members of the family are suffering the greatest anxiety. This unfortunate accident is one of hundreds which occur on every recurrence of the aninversary of the Declaration of Independence.

IMMORTAL ROBINSON CRUSOE.

Every nation has found delight in the story of Robinson Crusoe. A biblomaniac of Philadelphia has spent years in hunting for rare and curious editions of the immortal work. His agents, it appears, have had standing orders to buy up all editions that may be found, and he even possesses examples of the story in Latin and Greek. Thirty-three languages are represented in the collection, and these include Arabic, Persian, Turkish and Hebrew.

As is generally known, Daniel Defoe obtained the suggestion for Robinson Crusoe from Alexander Selkirk"s remarkable adventures on a desert island in the south Pacific several centuries ago. It has ever since formed one of the 'classics" of the young, taking its place in juvenile libraries with "Jack the Giant Killer," "The Arabian Nights Entertainments," etc.

Those who have read Wilkie Collins's "Moonstone" will call to mind old Gabriel Betteredge, who never read but one book—"Robinson Crusoe," from which he drew all his inspiration. In every emergency of life he found a passage in the work to meet his individual case.

Books are being multiplied all the time. Many die aborning, but some are here to stay. Like certain hymns, the notes from which make all the world akin, there are books which will ever appeal to the great mass of the human race, among them Defoe's chef d'ouvre.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Samuel Wolf and Augustus Wenzel, both of Brooklyn, were arrested Saturday charged with selling sugar pills as a cure for lung diseases.

State Department officials do not expect a reply from Germany to the President's recent note on Germany's submarine warfare until about July 10.

It is said that an order from the United States government for 355,000 pairs of standard army boots, with additional orders from the countries at war, have swelled "war ders" in this country for shoes and boots to 8,000,000 pairs or about $25,000,000 in gross business.

Just 15 minutes before quitting time, 15-year-old Edward Hefferman, of Philadelphia, who started to work for the first time on Monday, was jammed between a freight elevator and the first-floor ceiling in the plant of the McCambridge-Cooper Company, Friday afternoon, and fatally injured.

In sight of 600 factory girl excursionists going to Rocky Springs, Lancaster, Pa., Miss Katharine Strauss, 30, was caught between excursion train and an express at Wyomissing suburban station last Friday and cut in halves. Scores of others were in danger between the two moving trains. Many excursionists, horrified, cancelled their picnic plans.

The Giornale D'Italia, of Rome, prints an interview with Premier Pasich, of Serbia, obtained by a correspondent at Nish. Premier Pasich is quoted as saying that Roumanian intervention in the war is merely a question of days, perhaps hours. He adds that peace is nearer than expected, and that peace will mean the end of Austria.

Jewelry valued at $1,150 and $34 in cash were taken from Robert M. Pearce, of Rome, Ga., in a dollar matching game in the Monument Grounds, in Washington yesterday. The swindle followed an acquaintance with a stranger at the Union Station on Saturday evening, and the meeting of another stranger yesterday, according to the story Pearce told the police.

Owing to the industrial depression the price of a "plain drunk" in Huntington, W. Va., has been reduced from $21 to $1. The City Commissioner has had amended the city ordinance passed last July, when the prohibition law went into effect, providing for a minimum fine of $21 for drunkenness, and under the new ordinance a fine may be as low as $1.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Duncan, of Yonkers, N. Y., was killed yesterday evening when the touring car in which she was riding overturned on the Boston turnpike on the outskirts of town. Her son, William J. Duncan, suffered injuries that may cause his death. Mrs. Duncan was 81 years old and apparently suffered no physical injuries, but died from shock. Her son suffered a fracture of the skull.

Emperor Francis Joseph has been highly dissatisfied with the military and naval operations against Italy. He blames Gen. von Conrad, chief of the army staff, and Admiral Chiari, chief of the naval staff, who failed to secure the frontier and coast, despite ample warnings that Italian intervention was imminent. In an outburst of anger the emperor relieved Gens. Kankl and Rohr of their commands.

Three young men lost their lives yesterday in the waters of the Potomac and Anacostia rivers. Two expert canoeists, whose names have not yet been learned, went down with but a single cry for help when their canoe overturned opposite Fletcher's boathouse, above the Aqueduct Bridge. Henry Smoot, 16, of 209 Fourteenth street northeast, was drowned while bathing in the Anacostia. The bodies had not been recovered at a late hour last night.

Following the receipt of the warning from the government to take the caution to guard the plant, the Du Pont Powder Company at Hopewell, Va., has been increased the guard to 500 men. Major Richard Sylvester, formre head of the Washington police department, has been employed as director of the Du Pont force, and is now organizing the men in uniform clothes divisions.

The farmers of the Northern Neck counties are now engaged in cutting wheat, and the prospect is that the crop will prove to be the largest and best raised in this section for many years. The hay crop is also good, and the prospect for a large corn crop was never better. In fact, the recent rains have put a new face on the earth in these parts, and farmers are hopeful of a prosperous year.

Advices from Lancaster say that though the menhaden fishing season has been open for three weeks, the catch thus far has been very small, hardly any of the concerns having cleared expenses since the season opened. As yet the fish are very scarce in the Chesapeake Bay, and though the hope is expressed that conditions will improve as the season advances, the prospect is not encouraging.

Governor Stuart has appointed John B. Minor, of Richmond, a member of the State Board of Law Examiners for a term of five years. Mr. Minor will succeed Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax, who has served a full term of five years. He was relieved at his own request. The other members of the board are: Aubrey G. Weaver, of Front Royal; William Leigh, of Danville; Robt. M. Hughes, Norfolk, and R. C. Jackson, Roanoke.

If the United States should go to war, there are in Virginia 300,000 able-bodied men whose services could be utilized in fighting for their country. This was the estimate last reported to the War Department by Adjutant General W. W. Sale. All of these are not actually enrolled, but the State military authorities are required each year to report to the War Department the number of citizens available for active service. The actual strength of the Virginia Volunteers at the present time is 216 officers and 2,800 enlisted men.

WEST VIRGINIA WILL PAY.

Congressman From That State Confident Mandate of Supreme Court Will be Met.

Richmond, June 21—The Washington correspondent of the Times-Dispatch writes:

West Virginia will not defy the Supreme Court of the United States and will pay at the proper time the $12,394,000 judgment rendered against it in the Virginia debt litigation, according to a statement of a prominent West Virginia Congressman in Washington.

"The intelligent and law-abiding people of West Virginia realize that the Supreme Court cannot be defied," said this Congressman "My State was a party to the suit in the Supreme Court, and as the verdict is against it, the money will be paid. Too much prominence should not be given to the talk that the State will defy the Supreme Court and compel compulsory methods of collecting the money.

"I hear a good deal of favorable talk of paying the debt off at one time by levying a tax on corporations, coal, oil and gas. Governor Hatfield favored a tax on coal, oil and gas, but was not able to bring the Legislature around to his way. Now with the necessity of raising money to meet the judgment of the Supreme Court, I believe the tax on coal, oil and gas must come.

"Of course, we could issue bonds to pay off the obligation, but the sentiment, so far as I can gather, is for raising the money by taxation and pay off the old debt at once. Our Constitution provides we can issue bonds only for the purpose of taking our share of the old Virginia State debt."

There have been sent out of West Virginia many statements, indicating a warlike attitude on the part of that Commonwealth against the Supreme Court on account of the debt case decision. The Congressman quoted declares that this impression is wrong and that West Virginia will obey the decree of the court and pay the judgment in due time without compelling the Supreme Court to resort to drastic methods for its collection.

ALLEGED GERMAN CRUELTY

Again Asserted That Teutons Practice Crucifixion.

London, June 21.—A bandsman, lying wounded in the No. 2 Hospital at Exeter, brings back with him a terrible tale of German atrocities.

He declares, in a sworn statement taken by and in the presence of James Owen, mayor of Exeter, that one day between May 1 and 5 he was detailed to do duty as a stretcher-bearer with his battalion, which was advancing on Hill No. 60, southeast of Ypres.

After he had assisted in carrying back several wounded men of his own company, a sergeant ordered him to accompany another group to go and look for casualties to the left of where his battalion was advancing.

He says of the scene which he witnessed: "We passed an old barn about fifty yards distant. On the door of the barn we saw two men fastened, faces outward. Their arms were outstretched. I thought that there were nails through their hands, but some of my companions declare that there were big spikes driven through their palms.

"Their legs did not seem to be fastened and their heads hung down toward their chests. We could hardly see the faces but the men appeared to have been killed only recently, as the flesh was not yet discolored.

"They were dressed in khaki. I do not know to what regiment they belonged. They looked as if there had been a fire under one of them, for his clothes were all charred and blackened and there was a heap of cinders beneath. However, our sergeant would not permit us to approach any closer, because there was more work to be done further on."

How Mrs. Harrod Got Rid of Her Stomach Trouble

"I suffered with stomach trouble for years and tried everything I heard of, but the only relief I got was temporary until last spring I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them at our drug store. I got immediate relief from that dreadful heaviness after eating and from pain in the stomach," writes Mrs. Linda Harrod, Fort Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.

CARDINALS WIN

Trim The Braddocks 9 to 6 in a Great Game

The large crowd of fans who journeyed out to the Cardinal Baseball Park yesterday were well repaid for their time by witnessing one of the best and most exciting baseball games seen in this city during the year. The Braddocks have visited our town for about three years and have always trounced the Cardinals and it was the same fighting bunch of ball players the home lads had to battle with Sunday afternoon. Capt. Dug Merchant of the Cardinals selected Walter Allensworth for the pitching honors, and he performed for seven innings, when he was relieved by Eddie Thompson, Melvin Jones was behind the bat. Merchant Lynn, Bauer, McBride, Snowden, Lynch, and Joe Owens all worked well together, made fine plays at times, and were the wrecking crew who helped to side track the Braddocks by the score 9 to 6. Manager Goodfellow Moore of the Braddocks, turned loose in the beginning of the game "Smiling Boy" Spicer, and he toyed with the Cardinals for a time, but they solved his twisters and swatted a few timely balls that eventually brought in runs. Ruiz one of the Catholis University pitching stars finished the game after, the retirement of Spicer, Moore, Sutton, Crowley, Royer, Stearns, and every member of the Braddocks played classy and gold edge baseball and although beaten by the Cardinals they need not take their defeat in any but a good natured manner, for all fans admire a baseball team that trys hard to win no matter whether they lose or not. The fans of Alexandria are thanked for their attendance and support yesterday and the Cardinals promise them many more good games during the season if they continue their patronage.

NO EVIDENCE SECURED.

Little Light Shed on Sender of Examination Papers at Annapolis.

Annapolis, June 21.—The court of inquiry which is investigating conditions connected with the conduct of examinations at the Naval Academy has been in session for two weeks, and there has been on evidence before it that sheds any light on the sender of the papers to Midshipman James E. Moss, of the third class, which afterwards proved to be the examinations for all classes in modern languages.

These papers were contained in a plain envelope, which, without a stamp, was dropped in a mail box within the academy litmits and delivered to Moss, who insists that he did not know who sent them or suspect that they were papers of examinations which were to be given. So far there has been nothing to indicate anything about the mysterious sender.

There has been a flat failure to produce evidence which would be sufficient in a civil court to support the contention that the seven midshipmen must have known that these papers were the actual questions which were to be asked at a coming examination. Every midshipman who has testified, and they include the class presidents and other midshipmen of the best type, has stated that they would not have considered them so under the circumstances, and there has been proof of the possible good faith of Moss and the other midshipmen who saw or used the papers.

Two witnesses, one a professor in the department, and the other a midshipman who had actually taken the examination, made laughable failures when called upon to tell just what some of these examination papers were.

Midshipman V. O. Clark was shown the examination first prepared for the first class, but withdrawn, when it was found that a copy had disappeared. He insisted that it was the examination that he had actually taken, and could hardly be convinced otherwise, though given ample time to examine it and think about it.

In view of this state of the evidence, there is general interest in the developments of the coming week, which may bear upon the identity of the person who dropped the enveope addressed to Moss in a mail box within the academy limits.

Information for Lung Sufferers

The makers of Eckman's Alterative will be pleased to send reports of recoveries from tuberculosis and a booklet of interest to sufferers, with information about diet and fresh air. Investigate this case:—

2141 Susquehanna Ave., Phila., Pa.
"My Dear Sir:—For two years I was afflicted with hemorrhages of the lungs, and later I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia. When I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house I was left with a frightful, hacking cough, which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March, 1902, that I started taking Eckman's Alterative. In a short time my cough was gone and I was pronounced well. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done." (Abbreviated.)
(Signed) HOWARD L. KLOTZ.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and up-building the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size, $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries.
